3. Study the themes and key emphases in each book of the New Testament.
4. Devotional and ministerial application of the material.

Course Requirements:

- 1. Preparation for and attendance at classes.

Biblical sections for each class are to be read prior to class. More than two absences may result in failure. Please keep the instructor informed of illness or other issues affecting your participation.

2. Reading of the New Testament scriptures.

You will read the entire New Testament for this course. The revelation God has inspired and given to us is more important than any comments or supplements. Read consistently to stay with the material presented in class. You will read about 19 chapters or about 26 pages of the Bible each week. Use a readable Bible: a translation like the ESV, NIV, or NLT; no references or footnotes; and single column if possible. This reading should take approximately two hours each week. Your reading will be assessed for completeness in four sections: the Gospels on 4/1/19; Acts on 4/15/19; the Pauline books on 5/13/19; and the General books and Revelation on the last day of class. On each of these days, you will sign a statement indicating how much of this assignment you have completed.

3. Reading of the “Encountering the New Testament” textbook.

You will read the entire “Encountering the New Testament” textbook for this course. This text will offer basic introductory and explanatory material. Read consistently to stay with the material presented in class. You will read about one and one half chapters or about 26 pages of the text each week. As you work through a chapter, use the supplemental material included with the online resources. This reading should take approximately two hours each week. Your reading will be assessed by taking unit tests on the four parts indicated in the text: the Gospels on 4/1/19; Acts on 4/15/19; the Pauline books on 5/13/19; and the General books and Revelation on the last day of class. On each of these days, you will take an examination that will indicate your understanding of the material in the textbook for that part.

4. Study of the New Testament.

You will study the New Testament in multiple ways for this course. You will learn from class lectures and discussions. You will be given some hand out materials in class. You will do supplemental studies and reading as necessary. This is your opportunity to integrate the various sources you are exposed to for the formulation of your grasp of the New Testament.

5. A final examination.

This is a combined test. First you will report on your Bible reading for the current section. Second you will take an exam on the final part of the textbook. Third you will write an exam on the material covered in class. The test will be given on the last day of class.

6. Class participation.

Course Grading:

Final course grades will be determined by approximately equal weight for course requirements of total Bible reading, four unit tests, and the final essay exam with plus and minus adjustments for class participation. This means that each reading assessment will be worth about 4% of your final grade, each unit test will be worth about 16% of your final grade, and the final essay exam will be worth about 16% of your final grade.

Course Texts:

1. The Bible – a readable version.
2. Walter A. Elwell and Robert W. Yarbrough, Encountering the New Testament 3rd Edition, Grand Rapids: Baker Books, 2013.

Extra Credit:

For extra credit, compensation for a low grade, or for people who already have deep interaction with the New Testament, you can complete this assignment. Write a paper on one of these topics: Phariseeism in the New Testament, leadership structures in the early church or a biographical study of Peter.

Classroom Decorum:

We will be completing a three-unit college-level course together this semester. Because it has been structured to accommodate busy adult learners, we will need focus and cooperation for this to be successful. Plan to arrive on time because class will begin promptly. Avoid private discussion during class time. Be prepared for material to be given at a rapid pace. Take personal responsibility to receive any materials handed out during class. Hand in assignments promptly when required. Be sure you are seated where you can clearly see all projected material (class lecture ideas and videos will be used). Wait for appropriate discussion points to raise questions and concerns. Be considerate of your fellow students.

Contacting the Instructor:

Your interaction is invited. Often just before class and just after class are not appropriate occasions for time with the instructor. You can set up an appointment during office hours if you need extended discussion. Please feel free to call or visit.
